at Ondangwa was robbed of N$800 000 on Monday.

The money was reportedly meant to be distributed amongst Namposh branches. The unknown suspects pointed a gun at the postmaster while they removed the money.

She pleaded to those involved in commissioning the robbers to work for themselves and avoid robbing people of their hard-earned money and property.

"They should work for themselves, stop injuring and killing people of their hard-earned money," said Amwele.

Amwele also appealed to the public to make use of electronic transfers instead of carrying large amounts of cash.

In the same vein, she advised the public to always be vigilant when driving.

"Be on the lookout for cars following you for too long," warned the commissioner.

ONGWEDIVA – A spate of robberies have been reported in the Oshana region in recent months.

The suspects whose identities remain unknown snatch chunks of money from their victims, with clients visiting banks a prime target.

Oshana police chief Commissioner Raula Amwele said the situation is challenging because in most cases the victims have no sort of identification when reporting the matter.

However, she warned the culprits that their days are numbered.

"One day we will arrest them and they will face the wrath of the law," said Amwele. The commissioner said it does not mean that no suspects are arrested or that the police do not carry out investigations when the suspects are unknown.

She stressed that once a case has been registered, the police commence with the investigation in order to bring the culprits to book.

Oshivelo says no to shacks

Obrelin Simasiku

OMUTHIYA – The Oshikoto Regional Council says no shacks will be allowed to be constructed on township land at the Oshivelo settlement.

Oshikoto Chief Regional Officer Frans Enkali said a good example was taken against one of its directors who wanted any shacks to be constructed in Oshivelo. As we have seen from other towns, the effects of such dwellings result in fires, murder and rape," he reiterated while responding to a petition handed by residents a fortnight ago.

In the petition, residents complained about not being allowed to build shacks.

Other issues were high water tariffs, lack of serviced land, compensation, as well as discriminatory practice in terms of employment.

To these issues, Enkali said, as regional council, they are unable to provide sincere and concrete response, as the petition was full of inaccuracies and lacks a focal person to address.

Thus, he advised the concerned people to approach his office for a personal engagement.

However, on the issue of water tariffs, this was realised and it will be rectified soon. The issue was with Namwater's rates, which were inaccurate or high; thus, we, as a client, were also billing the end users based on what we were being charged. Therefore, that should not be a concern anymore," he said.

Residents bemoaned they were being charged as high as N$1 000 in tariffs a month.

In terms of employment, the CRO said as a government institution, it provides equal opportunities for all qualifying Namibians.

"It does make sense to say jobs are being provided to foreigners while such people are full Namibians; the constitution allows for equal employment for all inhabitants unless they bring proof there are non-Namibians," he questioned.

Furthermore, the community demanded that land be availed to serve as a reception area for those being compensated, arguing that Oshivelo is surrounded by farms, making it difficult to get a place to settle again.

However, Enkali said based on policies, people always have an option to choose between plots or compensation.

"We know you have been waiting for too long to have electricity, now that you got it please create businesses and make income using electricity," he said.

"We are aware that people were forced to pay a lot of money to the illegal suppliers of electricity, now that too has become the thing of the past because the government has now been committed to delivering services to its people. I would, therefore, like to encourage the city council to intensify these kinds of projects because only through this, we as a nation will be able to achieve prosperity for all our people. As a line ministry, I will continue to lobby for more funds for local authorities because it is you who are working closer to the electorate and are, therefore, familiar with their needs and aspirations."

According to Uttoni, the government had budgeted N$15 million towards capital projects for the 2019/2020 financial year.

"Therefore, our goal should be to remain focus and work as a team toward bringing the needed development of our communities. Thus, our government, through our ministry, provided funding to the City of Windhoek in the amount of N$15 million toward the capital project for the financial year 2019/2020 – and this project in one of the highlights," he said.

Community leader Shetweya Shikalepo, who spoke on behalf of the beneficiaries, expressed gratitude towards the initiative, saying they have been waiting for the past 20 years for electricity and now their dreams have come true.

Moses //Garob councillor Martin David said government is busy with several projects in the area, such as the provision of land, water and electricity, as well as the construction of a district hospital and three schools.

"Therefore, you need to be a little bit patient for all these services. Like for the hospital, people are already on the site, constructing the bridge – and soon, the construction of the main project will kick off," he said.

Arteta's Arsenal facing 'crucial moment' in transfer scramble

Mikel Arteta said on Friday the final few days of the transfer window could define Arsenal's season as the Gunners try their "maximum" to strengthen the squad.

The FA Cup winners have been heavily linked with a number of midfield targets but are running out of time ahead of Monday's international deadline.

It is understood that talks are ongoing with Lyon over a move for Houssem Aouar, but the Premier League club reportedly face a Friday deadline imposed by the French side.

A deal for Atletico Madrid's Thomas Partey stalled some weeks ago, even though Lucas Torreira could be heading the other way on a season-long loan deal.

Other potential departures from Arteta's squad include defenders Sead Kolasinac and Sokratis Papastathopoulos, while William Saliba has been linked with a loan move away from north London.

Arteta believes the success of his team's campaign could hinge on the club's activity over the next few days.

"I think it is a crucial moment because the end defines the people, the players, the balance and the quality that you are going to have, probably, for the rest of the season," he told reporters.

"So we need to make some decisions in the next three days. I think everything has been delayed so much. It is not only us but also probably every team because of the context we are in at the moment."

'TRYING OUR BEST'

Arteta, speaking ahead of his side's game against Sheffield United, sidestepped a question on whether he would be happy with his squad if there were no new signings made before 2300 GMT on Monday.

"It is because we can't do more," he said when asked what would happen if no new players came in.

"We are trying our maximum. We are maximising our resources with full support from the owners as well with what we are trying to achieve. It is whether we can do it or not."

"I am really satisfied. I know that we are all trying our best to improve the team and trying to take the direction to achieve the goals that we want."

After beating Liverpool on penalties to reach the League Cup quarterfinals on Thursday, Arsenal return to Premier League action on Sunday and Arteta is expecting a challenge from Chris Wilder's men at the Emirates despite their poor start.

"The season they had (last year), the way they have evolved as a team since they joined the Premier League, has been unbelievable," he said. "The work that the manager has done with the coaching staff with the resources they have is remarkable. We need to be really alert and we have to play at our best again." - bbc
