

9. PUBLIC PARTICIPATION [AT A GLANCE]

9.1 Introduction

The term participation typically refers to some aspect of local community involvement in the design, implementation and evaluation of a project or plan (Brown & Wyckoff-Baird, 1992). According to Smith (1983), public participation encompasses a range of procedures and methods designed to consult, involve, and inform the public to allow those that would be potentially affected by a decision or policy to have input into the process. The latter are also known as stakeholders, which include (IFC 2007):

“...persons or groups who are directly or indirectly affected by a project, as well as those who may have interests in a project and/or the ability to influence its outcome, either positively or negatively. Stakeholders may include locally affected communities or individuals and their formal and informal representatives, national or local government authorities, politicians, religious leaders, civil society organizations and groups with special interests, the academic community, or other businesses”

Table 9.1: Public Participation 5 Elements (Courtesy: International Association for Public Participation 2007)

| Element | Description |
|-----------------|---|
| (a) Inform | Provided the general public with balanced and objective information to assist them in understanding the problem (housing shortage), alternatives, opportunities and/or solutions, which is the servicing of land. |
| (b) Consult | Obtained public feedback on analysis, alternatives and/or decisions. |
| (c) Involve | to work directly with the public throughout the process to ensure that public concerns and aspirations are consistently understood and considered |
| (d) Collaborate | Partnered with the public in each aspect of the decision, including the development of alternatives and the identification of the preferred solution. |
| (e) Empower | Placed final decision making in the hands of the public. |

9.2 Call for Public Participation

The initial period for Public Participation ran between 1 July to 31 July 2020. No issues or comments were raised by potential I& APs despite extensive communication to engage them.

9.3 Newspaper & Facebook Advertising

The Consultant advertised using the targeted approach by using the locally and nationally read and accepted Newspaper, New Era, to reach out to I&APs. See Adverts on next page, Figures 8.1 – 8.2

9.4 Site Notice

Given the dispersed nature of the identified piece of land, and its isolation, and the means of communication outlined above, it was deemed NOT necessary and to display a makeshift Notice Board near the identified site.

TODAY IS... MAKE A GIFT DAY

 There's just something amazing about unwrapping a gift, wondering what's inside. Underneath the wrapping paper could be anything, a CD from your favorite band, a new headset from Best Buy, any one of a million things from a million stores. But what's really special is when you open up that paper and what's found inside is a tangible representation of the love and adoration the person giving the gift felt you. Nothing says that like a hand-made gift, and on Make a Gift Day, you get to be the one to share that love with the people you care about.
