Leroy Sane

Loew faces calls to drop Leroy Sane for England clash

Germany head coach Joachim Loew is under pressure to shake up his starting side for Tuesday's blockbuster Euro 2020 last 16 clash against England at Wembley and drop under-performing winger Leroy Sane.

As a replacement for Thomas Mueller, who was sidelined by a knee injury, Sane struggled on his first start of the tournament in the 2-2 draw against Hungary, with Germany needing a late equaliser to reach the knockout stages.

Sane made little impact up front, reflecting an inconsistent first season for Bayern Munich where the flashes of brilliance were all too few and far between.

When Sane failed to convert a chance from a corner against Hungary, whistles echoed around Munich's Allianz Arena on Wednesday.

Former Germany midfielder Stefan Effenberg says Loew must react by dropping the 25-year-old for the England showdown.

"Loew shouldn't start Sane, he is not doing the team any favours, but neither is Sane himself," Effenberg told t-online.

"He (Sane) lacks self-confidence - and that means that he can't use his fantastic abilities."

Both Effenberg and Germany legend Lothar Matthaeus urge Loew to reconsider his midfield options and turn to players from Bundesliga powerhouse Bayern Munich.

"Jogi (Loew) trusts the wrong players. Above all, it was the Bayern players who pushed us through," said Matthaeus.

Leon Goretzka, who came off the bench to score the crucial late goal against Hungary, is expected to start at Wembley having shaken off a leg injury.

Effenberg also wants to see more of 18-year-old Bayern midfielder Jamal Musiala, a substitute against Hungary, who "created more danger in the last eight minutes than Sane in the whole game".

Matthaeus wants the Bayern midfield to start en masse against England with Joshua Kimmich switched from right-back to central midfield.

"I don't just recommend Loew starts with Jamal Musiala, I recommend the whole Bayern midfield start," said Matthaeus who captained West Germany to the World Cup title in 1990.

"Joshua Kimmich plays the ball deep, Leon Goretzka makes runs into the penalty area and Thomas Mueller organises the team - for me, that midfield has the quality to set the tone against any team," explained Matthaeus.

To make way for Goretzka and Kimmich, Matthaeus suggested Loew drop two regulars in midfield.

"Nothing against Ilkay Gundogan and Toni Kroos, but with them, some things are missing that are urgently needed," he added.

Zambia surprise with Mweene recall for Cosafa Cup

Zambia coach Milutin 'Micho' Sredojevic has recalled veteran goalkeeper Kennedy Mweene after naming a 30-man provisional squad for the 2021 COSAFA Cup that will be staged in Nelson Mandela Bay from July 6-18.

Mweene's recall is something of a surprise given that he has not played international football for three years, though he never retired and has previously stated he was open to a return to the national team.

The 36-year-old is one of four goalkeepers in the squad alongside Polokwane City gloveman Cyril Chibwe, and Gregory Sanjase (Young Green Eagles) and Lameck Siame (Kabwe Warriors).

Sredojevic has not called any of his players from Europe, but there is a strong contingent of South African-based stars to choose from, including in-form forward Augustine Mulenga (AmaZulu), strikers Justin Shonga (Cape Town City) and Gamphani Lungu (SuperSport United), and midfielder Salulani Phiri (Polokwane City).

Zambia are the defending champions from the last competition held in 2019, and begin their Group B campaign this year against Comoros Islands on July 7.

They face Madagascar three days later, before a final pool game against Malawi on June 13. Only the top team in each of the three pools and the best runner-up advance to the semifinals.

Sredojevic has previously said he wants to use the competition as a build-up to the 2022 Fifa World Cup group stage qualifiers that start in September.

SQUAD:

Goalkeepers: Kennedy Mweene (Mamelodi Sundowns, South Africa), Gregory Sanjase (Young Green Eagles), Cyril Chibwe (Polokwane City, South Africa), Lameck Siame (Kabwe Warriors)

Defenders: Isaac Shamujompa, Roderick Kembo (both Buildcon),

Kennedy Mweene

Simon Silwimba, Adrian Chama (both Zesco United), Dominic Chanda (Kabwe Warriors), Kabaso Chongo (TP Mazembe, DR Congo), Prosper Chiluya, Benedict Chepeshi (both Red Arrows), Zachariah Cholongoshi (Power Dynamos)

Midfielders: Roderick Kabwe (Black Leopards, South Africa), Spencer Sautu, Benson Sakala (both Power Dynamos), Felix Bulaya, Paul Katema (both Red Arrows), Salulani Phiri (Polokwane City, South Africa), Collins Sikombe (Lusaka Dynamos), Prince Mumba (Kabwe Warriors), Augustine Mulenga (AmaZulu, South Africa), Kelvin Mubanga Kampamba (Zesco United), Jimmy Mukeya (NAPSA Stars)

Portugal talents stall to leave questions over style, approach

Fernando Santos framed Portugal's Euro 2020 exit as a tale of bad luck and missed chances but the failure to extract the best from a wealth of attacking talents was ultimately what cost his team dear.

Belgium were left hanging on to their 1-0 win in Seville, decided by Thorgan Hazard's swerving strike at the end of the first half which earns them a quarterfinal meeting with Italy in Munich on Friday.

They might have scored a second with more precision on the break and instead a slender advantage was always going to give way to a Portugal onslaught at the end of breathless tie in the last 16.

"I think it's an unfair result but they scored and we didn't," said Santos. "Their goal was a shot from nothing, from outside the box. We can't control everything."

But while the statistics would show Portugal had 24 shots, six of them on target, the flow of the match had Belgium as the more ambitious team until they had to defend and their opponents grew increasingly desperate.

Portugal started with just over 200 million euros ($238 million) worth of talent in their front three, with Cristiano Ronaldo flanked by Liverpool's Diogo Jota and Bernardo Silva of Manchester City.

When the game was getting away from them, another trio worth another 200 million euros entered, Bruno Fernandes, Joao Felix and Andre Silva coming on for Jota, Bernardo Silva and

Fernando Santos

Joao Moutinho.

France's Kylian Mbappe, Karim Benzema and Antoine Griezmann might be the sharpest starting trident but even the world champions cannot match Portugal's depth of attacking options.

And yet there was a lack of fluidity about them at La Cartuja as players that sparkle for their clubs looked weighed down by a need to put defensive shape and organisation first.

There are mitigating circumstances, with Fernandes clearly fatigued in this tournament as his appearances for the season ticked past 70 in the group stage.

'NO ISSUE WITH RONALDO'

Felix has been drifting for months and needs rejuvenating after watching most of Atletico Madrid's LaLiga success from the sidelines before being dropped by Portugal too.

And they were up against an experienced Belgian back line, whose best days might be behind them but who still delivered a throwback demonstration of organised, committed defence under pressure.

Facing Belgium, the team ranked No 1 in the world rankings for the last three years, after encountering Germany and France in their group, was about as tough a draw as could be imagined.

"Toby Alderweireld, Jan Vertonghen,

Thomas Vermaelen, they are the masters," said Roberto Martinez. "The talent they have makes defending an art." Yet there was reason to expect more from Portugal, who prioritised suppression for most of the first half, a tactic that proved successful in France five years ago but jarred when adopted by this current crop.

When the push came late on, it felt frantic rather than planned, players thrown on off the bench and balls lofted towards the area in hope more than expectation. At one point, Felix was playing right wing-back and Fernandes in defensive midfield.

If the plan was to service Ronaldo, it worked to some extent, after the 36-year-old scored five goals - his best ever Euro tally - but the sacrifices made by those around him come at a cost.

At the final whistle, Ronaldo hurled his captain's armband to the ground, Portugal's early exit now added to his disappointment with Juventus last season in both the Champions League and Serie A. "He scored five goals in the tournament and OK, he didn't score today but he was a true captain in every sense of the word," said Santos. "He tried to turn the game around. There is no issue with Ronaldo."

When Ronaldo eventually brings his immense international career to an end, a more progressive coach than Santos might compensate the loss by shifting the balance and approach.

For now, Portugal turn to next year's World Cup in Qatar, needing to find a way to illuminate not just Ronaldo but those coming up behind him.

Antonio Ruediger and Ilkay Gundogan returned for Germany's final training session on Monday

Gundogan, Ruediger back training before England tie

Antonio Ruediger and Ilkay Gundogan returned for Germany's final training session on Monday before their Euro 2020 last-16 clash against England, with coach Joachim Loew expected to make changes to his starting line-up.

Chelsea centre-back Ruediger had missed training on Sunday with a cold while Manchester City midfielder Gundogan was sidelined with a head knock. Both recovered to take part at their Euro 2020 base in Bavaria before the flight to London for Tuesday's fixture with England at Wembley.

Thomas Mueller is tipped to replace Leroy Sane, having shaken off a knee injury. His Bayern Munich teammate Leon Goretzka, who scored the crucial equaliser against Hungary in Germany's final group-stage match, is expected to take over from Gundogan in midfield.

the 31-year-old Mueller as "worth his weight in gold" and said that "he lifts us up a level".

Mueller scored twice against England in the Germans' 4-1 last-16 win at the 2010 World Cup - the last meeting of the countries at a major tournament.

"I want to confirm this threat that the English might feel when a Mueller is on the pitch," Mueller joked on Saturday.

"(But) it won't do me any good to tell my opponents about 2010 out on the pitch."

On Saturday, the German FA claimed Joachim Loew's squad were blocked from holding their final training session at Wembley.

In a statement, a Uefa spokesman said any training would have been "restricted to certain areas of the pitch" to help the turf recover after four Euro 2020 games, but added that "Germany, however, did not ask to train in the stadium".
