CAREER

Oliver Krappmann, graduated 1995 in Geology at the Friedrich-Alexander University in Erlangen, Germany. After working for engineering projects in the field of groundwater and refuse dumps and also in the gypsum mining industry in Germany, he moved to South Africa and from 1997 onwards, worked with mineral mining and exploration in Southern Africa. After three and a half years in the Witwatersrand gold mining industry, Oliver moved to Namibia to work for the Minerals Development Fund at the Ministry of Mines and Energy. He started Geokey CC in 2003; a consultancy company that is involved in numerous mineral projects and assignments within southern Africa. Oliver possesses a broad-based knowledge of the mineral sector with experience and practical know-how of exploration work as well as methodology of project development and project management. He is director of the companies Gecko Phosphates (Pty) Ltd and Swakop Calcite (Pty) Ltd.
