New roles announced to drive Paratus expansion

With an impressive N$1-billion revenue per annum, Paratus provides services to its customers in more than 35 African countries.

As part of the Paratus group's vision and to support the rapid growth and expansion plans of the business, Group CEO Barney Harmse will take up the new position of Executive Chairman of Paratus Group and Group COO Schalk Erasmus will take over the Group CEO role. They will be working very closely together not only during the handover in the coming months, but also over the next few years, to ensure the group's new vision is fulfilled and that continuity in all areas of implementation is sustained.

Our group's vision is to transform Africa through exceptional digital infrastructure and customer service.

Barney Harmse
Group CEO: Paratus

Together with their co-founders, Harmse and Erasmus had the vision for establishing Africa's quality network and have, over the past two decades, guided the group's moves to assert Paratus as a major telco player with an impressive footprint in Africa. Owning its own infrastructure; building expert teams in seven southern African countries; and serving customers across the continent's divides with a seamless quality network service are the cornerstones of the group's success. With an impressive N$1-billion revenue per annum, Paratus also provides services to its customers in more than 35 African countries; is the appointed partner to land the Equiano subsea cable in Namibia; and has built four of its own Data Center facilities in three African countries to date.

Barney Harmse says: "Our group's vision is to transform Africa through exceptional digital infrastructure and customer service. Our objective is to double revenue within the next five years. Our plan for expansion and growth is through investing and deploying the best infrastructure, and through mergers and acquisitions. Our focus areas are South, Central, and West Africa - they are huge markets. We have recently opened in the DRC through a joint venture with GBS in that country, where we have won a tender to activate a 620-kilometer fiber optic network link. Harmse and the team have built an impressive quality network across Africa, and they are very proud of their achievements. As Executive Chairman, I will be able to assist and help drive expansion with more focus and acuity and I am excited about our next growth trajectory."

Projects

Schalk Erasmus has been with Paratus since the beginning 20 years ago. He has been instrumental in various projects, including The Equiano Cable Project, The Trans Kalahari Fibre Network (TKF), and in recent years, has been responsible for the roll-out of the group's data center (DC) in Namibia, one of the group's most considerable investments in infrastructure to date. He says: "We're entering the fifth era of connectivity. Yes, it's about data and, yes, it's about quality connectivity but we believe the future will also be more focused upon how people experience the content, and how being better connected can help to transform the way people live and work. We are investing in digital infrastructure to grow Africa's quality network. We will now expand to new territories so that more people may flourish and be transformed through connectivity."

"We're seeing our vision fast becoming a reality. Although it's only the beginning, we are already in serious talks in a few west African countries."

Harmse concludes: "We have carved the Paratus path across the continent with due care and attention. We are delivering Africa's quality network, we were born in Africa, we know Africa. There are no limits and that's what we offer our customers - limitless opportunities through connectivity. Our new vision is aligned with what Africa needs right now. It's an exciting time for our business - and for Africa." Harmse and Erasmus will work very closely together with the Paratus top structure over the next few months to enable the full handover of Group CEO responsibilities in August 2022, when Paratus officially opens its DC in Windhoek, its fourth in Africa.

Journalism groups criticise Musk's twitter deal

Groups representing journalists around the world expressed concern on Tuesday that billionaire entrepreneur Elon Musk's move to buy Twitter would damage media freedoms on the online platform.

Musk, who has reached a US$44 billion (R696 billion) deal for Twitter, describes himself as a "free speech absolutist" who would encourage no holds barred exchanges between the network's 400 million users.

But the International Federation of Journalists and the European Federation of Journalists said his move would place too much power in the hands of one owner and could harm efforts to curtail bullying and disinformation on the site.

"Twitter is an extension of journalists' offices. This is where journalists promote their work, express ideas or find sources of information," said IFJ general secretary Anthony Belanger.

"This space must be duly moderated, while respecting freedom of speech. It is a fine balance that any Twitter owner must pay attention to," he said.

"We are concerned that Elon Musk's plans for Twitter are going the wrong direction by exacerbating opportunities to attack journalists and threatening the anonymity of users."

Musk has said that he wishes to expand Twitter's user verification system to "authenticate all humans". This might curtail some anonymous abuse on the platform, but will raise fears among vulnerable groups who prefer to keep their identities secret. -Fin24
