Four men found in possession of rhino horn

Niël Terblanché

THE Protected Resources Sub Division of the Namibian Police has launched an investigation into the origin of four rhino horns found in possession of four suspects during an impromptu roadblock in the Kunene Region.

According to a success report provided by NamPol's Public Relations Division, the four men were travelling in a minibus taxi from Kamanjab to Opuwo when they were found in possession of four horns wrapped in tinfoil.

The horns were confiscated along with the vehicle they were travelling in.

The report states that the men face charges related to the possession and trade in protected wildlife products.

The ages of the suspects range from 20 to 46.
