Poachers flee without prey

The Nyime anti-poaching unit saw another success at the beginning of the week. The unit noticed three suspects using their donkeys to break into a farm near Gobabis. "After we followed them, one of the suspects pulled a panga and we fired a warning shot," the unit said on social media. The suspects then ran away, leaving their donkeys behind, which were packed with fresh eland meat. The suspects are known in the area and further investigations are underway.
