In another joint operation by officials from the Ministry of Environment, Special Forces and the Namibian Police's Conserved Resources Department, a suspect was arrested in the Zambezi region after he was found in possession of three elephant tusks. He offered the tusks for sale to an undercover agent. The 33-year-old suspect was arrested in Katima Mulilo on July 14. The three elephant tusks were cut into 13 pieces, according to the Environment Ministry's report. Photos: Ministry of the Environment
