Acknowledgements

Many people gave the production of Okavango Delta: Floods of Life their support. Special credit is due to those who provided particular contributions of information, time and material support: Patricia Blom, Barbara Curtis, Helen Dallas, William Darwall, Bonnie Galloway, Pete Hancock, Mike Holding, Jessica Jones, Lucy Kemp, Jens Kipping, Naidu Kurugundla, Markus Lindholm, Anson Mackay, Spike McCarthy, Celia Mendelsohn, Nkobi Moleele, Belda Mosepele, Mark Muller and Ali Flatt, Richard Randall and Sue Ringrose.

Other important assistance was given by Rene and Marije Allemekinders, Jon Barnes, Brad Besterlink and Andy Crawford, Hans Beuster, Caspar Bonyongo, Lin Cassidy, Masego Dhliwayo, Louis du Preez, Birgitta Farrington, Richard Fynn, Clinton Hay, Don Kgathi, Martie MacFarlane, Lapo and Innocent Magole, Coleen Mannheimer, Wellington Masamba, Joseph Mbaiwa, Tico McNutt, Martin and Stephie Mendelsohn, Lesego Mmualefe, Monica Morrison, Sekgowa Motsumi, Chaminda Rajapakse, Vince Schacks, Roger Swart, Eliot Taylor and Ben van der Waal.

Staff at the HOORC library made special efforts to track down material that was otherwise hard to find. The assistance of the Central Statistics Office, Department of Environmental Affairs and Department of Water Affairs of the Botswana Government is acknowledged with gratitude. Many photographs were made available for the book by the photographers listed on page 144. Their generosity and interest in the project is appreciated.

Okavango Delta: Floods of Life was produced under the auspices of an agreement between IUCN and HOORC, and the Biokavango project of the Botswana government, the Global Environment Facility (GEF) and United Nations Development Program (UNDP); the UK DEFRA Darwin project Monitoring and Simulating threats of aquatic biodiversity in the Okavango Delta undertaken at the University College of London; and the Southern African Institute for Aquatic Biodiversity (SAIAB).

Recommendations to produce this book stem from a long-standing wish of staff at HOORC to have such a volume published and the IUCN project which produced the report The Status and Distribution of Freshwater Biodiversity in Southern Africa, published in 2009.
