Gasperini blasts Lookman for missing penalty

Atalanta coach Gian Piero Gasperini said his striker Ademola Lookman is "one of the worst penalty-takers he has ever seen" after his miss from the spot hindered a comeback in their home 3-1 defeat to Club Brugge in the Champions League.

Lookman pulled back one goal early in the second half after Brugge took a 3-0 halftime lead, but then had a penalty saved by goalkeeper Simon Mignolet, as the Serie A side were knocked out with a 5-2 aggregate defeat.

Gasperini singled out the Nigeria international for criticism, adding offensive midfielder Charles de Ketelaere or striker Mateo Retegui should have taken the penalty instead.

"Lookman was not supposed to take that penalty, he is one of the worst penalty-takers I've ever seen. He has a frankly terrible record, even in training, he converts very few of them.

Retegui and De Ketelaere were there, but Lookman in a moment of enthusiasm after scoring decided to take the ball, and that was a gesture I did not appreciate at all," the Italian manager told a post-match press conference.

Gasperini also criticised Atalanta captain Rafael Toloi, who was shown a straight red card for a shove on Maxim De Cuyper after an argument over a throw-in.

"That was an ugly incident, and we must never lose our heads. Atalanta must leave the Champions League with dignity, having played great games against the likes of Real Madrid, Arsenal and Barcelona," he said.

Atalanta, third in Serie A, became the second Italian side to exit the Champions League, following AC Milan, who drew 1-1 with Feyenoord, losing 2-1 on aggregate.

Opportunities for Diversification and Modernization

While the challenges are significant, the potential decline of Nissan and Honda in Namibia also presents opportunities for diversification and modernization of the country's vehicle market. One potential outcome is the accelerated adoption of EVs and hybrid vehicles. With Japanese automakers struggling to compete in the EV space, Chinese manufacturers like BYD and Chery could seize the opportunity to introduce affordable, technologically advanced alternatives. Chinese automakers have been aggressively expanding their global footprint, particularly in the EV segment, and Namibia could benefit from this trend. The introduction of more EVs and hybrids would align with Namibia's increasing focus on sustainable energy solutions and could be further supported by government incentives for EV adoption. However, the lack of EV infrastructure, particularly charging stations, remains a critical barrier. Without significant investment in this area, widespread adoption of EVs may remain slow and concentrated in urban centers.

The Role of Government and Industry Stakeholders

The Namibian government and industry stakeholders have a crucial role to play in navigating this transition. Policymakers could incentivize the adoption of EVs and hybrids through favorable import duties, tax incentives, and trade agreements. Additionally, investments in EV infrastructure, such as charging stations, will be essential to support the growth of this segment. Industry stakeholders, including dealerships and importers, may need to explore partnerships with emerging automakers, particularly those from China and Europe, to diversify their supply chains and mitigate potential disruptions. Adapting to shifting consumer demand and embracing new technologies will be key to ensuring the long-term sustainability of Namibia's automotive sector.

Conclusion: A Pivotal Moment for

Namibia's Automotive Sector

The struggles of Nissan and Honda, coupled with the collapse of their proposed merger, underscore the mounting competitive pressures facing traditional automakers in the global transition to EVs. For Namibia, these developments present both risks and opportunities. While the potential decline of these brands could disrupt the country's automotive supply chain, it also opens the door for a more diverse and modernized vehicle market. By diversifying supply chains, embracing new technologies, and implementing supportive policies, Namibia can navigate this pivotal moment and position itself for a sustainable and competitive automotive future. The coming years will be critical in shaping the trajectory of the country's vehicle market, with government action and industry adaptation playing key roles in determining the outcome.
